

Creator Outreach: the gig

Summer paid task · everything in one place

Everything for the creator outreach gig in one place.

► What it is

You'll be reaching out to creators to get them to play GoatLab and post about it. We've got games for all the major sports (baseball, basketball, soccer, college football), so sports creators across any sport are fair game, and gaming creators in general are a secondary target. You'd be reaching out through X and email primarily. The counseling job shouldn't be an issue since this is all evening/async stuff, and honestly evenings are better for creator replies anyway.

► Platforms we want them posting on

X, TikTok, Instagram, YouTube, and Twitch. Any of those is a win. I care most about YouTube and Twitch since they convert the best and we can actually track them.

► Who to hit up

- I'll send you a list of ~55 creators with priorities on it, so start at the top and work down.
- Also source your own. At least 5k followers, posts about sports (any sport works, gaming as a secondary), active in the last couple weeks, real engagement (actual comments, not bots). A small account that replies beats a huge one that ghosts.
- Every new one you find goes in the sheet: handle, follower count, one line on why they fit.

► How to reach out

- I'll give you the scripts/templates. Use them, but always tweak the first line so it's personal, like mentioning one of their recent posts or videos. No lazy copy-paste blasts, that's the whole game here.
- X DMs and email are the two channels. YouTubers/streamers usually list a business email on their About page, so email those. Everyone else, DM on X.
- Max ~10-15 reach-outs a day per platform. Only follow up once if they ghost (like 5-7 days later), then move on.
- Don't quote a price. If a creator's open to a paid post, ask what their rate is, drop it in the Rate column of the sheet, and send it to me to approve before you commit. Plenty will do a free game for free, so let them name it first.

► Tracking

Every creator gets their own tracking link so we can see exactly how many new players they send us. For YouTube especially, the creator drops the link in their description so we can count how many new users come from that video. That's how we know who's actually driving people vs. just posting.

Important: a post only counts once it's live and has the link in it. A shoutout with no link doesn't count, since we can't track it and it barely sends anyone anyway.

► Pay

- $50/week for the first two weeks, a trial run for both of us.
- Bonuses on top of that:
 - $10 every time someone you reached out to actually posts a video/post
 - $25 for a livestream
 - $10 for every 1,000 new players your creators send us (each person counted once, not raw plays), tracked through the links (mostly YouTube, X, and Twitch)
 - All bonuses capped at $500 total.
- Paid every Friday (Venmo/Zelle, whatever's easiest for you).
- If it's clicking after the two weeks, we keep rolling and I'll bump up the base.

► Couple ground rules

- Never say we're affiliated with MLB, MLB The Show, or EA. It's "real MLB ratings," that's it.
- If anyone asks, just be upfront you're reaching out on behalf of GoatLab.
- Keep it human in the DMs, you're a real person who thinks the game's cool, not a bot.

► Logging

Everything goes in the shared sheet: who you contacted, date, platform, did they reply, did they post, and their tracking link. That sheet is how we settle up the bonuses each Friday, so keep it current.

Let me know if you're down and I'll get you set up with the list and templates.